A STRAWBERRY ASSOCIATION FOR CHRISTIAN COUNTY

A suggestion to our land owners:

Hopkinsville and Christian county have come prominently into the limelight within the last two years as the most progressive community in the State. When they go after anything they get it, and they are much given to go after things. This is partly because we are naturally a progressive people and partly because of the close co-operative spirit that actuates the people of the county and the town in whatever they undertake.

As witness the Good Roads movement with the large resultant number of King Drags in use. The Fox Bros., big creamery and the biggest County Fair in the State and these and a host of other achievements.

In view of all which, it is a matter of astonishment that we have not yet organized a Strawberry Growers' Association. Everything is for one and nothing against it. We grow finer strawberries here than anywhere else in the world.

At a luncheon I attended the other day, they served the strawberries with the caps on in large dinner plates, full plates too, and there was not a berry on that table less than four and a half inches in circumference. Many of them were much larger. All raised right here. Could not have been grown that big anywhere else in fact.

Christian county could raise and export, without much additional outlay, a half billion dollars worth of strawberries—not to mention raspberries, cultivated blackberries, gooseberries and cherries, grapes and other small fruits, and as to peaches, the very poorest lands in Tennessee, the historical Tennessee Ridge, are now a great value owing to the settling there of a foreign colony that planted the clay hillsides in Elberta Peaches.

All of these crops are capable of being planted, tended and gathered by women and children, a class of labor now utilized but little here.

Furthermore, we are just one night's run from St. Louis and Chicago and on a "bee line" to both. An express car of strawberries leaving here on the Dixie Flyer at Seven o'clock p. m. reaches Chicago at Seven the next morning in time for late breakfast. Same with St. Louis. Few, if any, other towns can say as much, because the fast trains do not stop.

Warren county claims to ship Half Million Dollars worth of strawberries annually. This is one-third as much as our tobacco crop amounts to. It makes you feel rich to think of a new crop bringing in that much, doesn't it? And we have three railroads to Bowling Green's one.

Now we can do nothing without organization. It is a good time right now to organize this Strawberry Association and get ready for next year's crop, or call it a Fruit Growers' Association and organize on all kinds of fruits and berries.

BELIEVES GERMAN WIRELESS DEVICE BLEW UP STEAMER

London, June 1.—The suggestion has been made in the Evening Standard by Fred T. Jane, the naval author, that the steamer Princess Irene was blown up by a German wireless device. The Princess Irene, an auxiliary in the British navy, was blown up last week in Sheerness harbor, with a loss of over 300 lives.

"The sudden and complete destruction of the Princess Irene in the Mediterranean," Mr. Jane writes, "at no great distance from where the battleship Bulwark also was suddenly blown to atoms may be a curious coincidence. Italian experiments have provided it possible to explode a properly attuned charge by wireless from a short distance. If that charge be surreptitiously placed in a magazine everything in the magazine will go the same way. One spontaneous explosion is thinkable enough, but two in the same district demand too much from the imagination."

BRITISH LOST 213 VESSELS SINCE BEGINNING OF WAR

London, June 1.—An Admiralty statement, giving the number of British merchant and fishing vessels sunk or captured since the beginning of the war, shows that 56 merchant ships have been sent to the bottom by cruisers of the enemy, 12 by mines and 62 by submarines, a total of 130.

Eighty-three fishing crafts have been lost and of these twenty-four were sunk by mines. Since German submarines began their attack on merchant shipping January 27, the merchant vessels sunk by them number fifty-nine and the fishing craft thirty one.

Looking at these losses from the standpoint of a single day, it is seen that since the war began Great Britain has lost 4,866 tons in merchant shipping and 13,585 tons in fishing craft.

Destroyed by Fire.

Clarksville, Tenn., June 2.—Shortly after 2 o'clock Monday morning the Clark & Coleman tobacco warehouse, on Spring Street was totally destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars. Since the opening of the 1914-15 season, the building had been used by Clark & Stafford as a warehouse and loose floor salesroom. The building was owned by M. K. Clark and Mrs. Jane Coleman. How the fire originated is unknown.

BEE LINE DIXIE ROUTE

Evansville Starts Movement To Follow the Natural Course.

EVANSVILLE TO NASHVILLE

Of Course Passing Through
The City of Hopkinsville.

The Evansville Courier of June 1, says: "The Dixie Bee Line, a shorter automobile route from Chicago to the South than the one laid out by the Dixie Highway commission, was initiated at a meeting in Mayor Bosse's office Monday night attended by representatives from Knox and Vanderburg counties.

The plan is to tap the Dixie Highway at Danville, Ill., where it shoots eastward to Indianapolis and Louisville, and thence to Nashville, and improve a bee line route through Terre Haute, Vincennes, Evansville and Henderson on through Kentucky and Tennessee until it joins the Dixie Highway again at Nashville.

Mayor Bosse was made president of the meeting. He was authorized to call a meeting to organize Vanderburg county and later to call together in Evansville representatives of all the counties traversed, Evansville, because of its location, will be made the central headquarters and the executive direction will devolve on Mayor Bosse.

The proposed roadway would traverse twelve counties in Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. Permanent county organizations will be formed this week in Vanderburg and Knox counties and the others affected will be asked to join the counties which have taken the initiative in the formation of an organization to be known as the Dixie Bee Line Highway association.

Each county will be asked to improve the highway within its own borders and all will be banded together, with Knox and Vanderburg taking the initiative into an organization to promote and build the highway, which would connect with the Dixie Highway at both Nashville and Danville and cut off about seventy-five miles of the route through Louisville.

At the meeting last night facts were produced to show that the Bee Line route would need the improvement of but a few short gaps that travelers would encounter less trouble from floods over the new route than over the official routes of the Dixie Highway that the topography of the country traveled over is more level so far as Indiana is concerned than either the Cincinnati or Louisville routes of the Dixie pike and that the Bee Line is altogether the most feasible and the shortest route between Chicago and the South."

Hogs and Bulls as Racing Mounts.

The eighteenth century experiment with bulls and cows as racing mounts, instead of horses. The early nineteenth century saw an equally interesting substitute for the harnessed horse. Just a century ago a small farmer of the neighborhood drove into St. Albans on market day in a little car drawn by four hogs. Having toured the market place three or four times amid applause, he put his animals up in a stable, did his marketing and drove off again to the accompaniment of louder cheers, which did not make them shy. It had taken him six months to train them, and he refused an offer of $250 down for the vehicle and team.

MARRIED A MONTH

Dr. Andrew Sargent Springs a
Surprise On His Friends.

Dr. Andrew Sargent sprang a surprise on his friends Tuesday evening by appearing at the Elks Home on the arrival of the 6.45 train with a bride. It was the first intimation that he had been married since May 5th.

The story makes quite a pretty little romance. Six years ago while Dr. Sargent was traveling in Scotland he met Miss Isabelle Dora King, of New York. They were impressed with each other and there was an exchange of greetings between them from time to time in the years that followed. Last January Dr. Sargent sent a New Year's card to Miss King that elicited a reply and a correspondence resulted that grew in interest until it very naturally led up to the subject of matrimony. A few months later Dr. Sargent obtained Miss King's promise to become his wife on June 16th. Last April he suddenly discovered that urgent business called him to New York and he spent three weeks in the east. It was while there that he became an impatient lover and the result of his pleadings was that the marriage took place in the city hall at New York on May 5th, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Madison C. Peters, of the Presbyterian church, of which the bride is a member.

Mrs. Sargent is a lady of imposing presence, extensive travel and varied accomplishments. She is a talented musician and possesses a mind richly stored with a wide range of literary culture.

Announcement cards have been sent out by Mr. Walter J. King, the bride's brother, and for the present Dr. and Mrs. Sargent will reside in the Finkel Flats.

It was intended that Mrs. Sargent would come to Kentucky September 1, but that proved to be too long a time to keep the secret and so it was arranged for her to come three months earlier. Dr. Sargent met her at Princeton, taking none of his friends into his confidence until they stepped off the train.

Hospital Team.

Dr. Roy Robinson, manager of the strong Western Kentucky Hospital team at Hopkinsville, will bring his ball tossers here next Friday for a game with Stone's sluggers. The Hopkinsville team is the only one that has been able to defeat the locals and is said to be the strongest in this section. Manager Stone will work Hancock in this contest and is confident that his gang will cop—Hustler.
